

November 15, 2010

Designed by architect Gordon Bunshaft in 1950, Manhattan House stands as a quintessential symbol of modernist architecture on Manhattan's East 66th Street. Last week, James Huniford, along with three other designers, revealed his irresistible design for one of the classic building's swanky, new showrooms.